Hello All,

I usually do not post however I felt compelled to share—

I received a call from a dear friend who has been fighting breast cancer for some time now. Has had a lumpectomy and radiation to the right breast and was scheduled for an open biopsy for a mass of the left last week. I had talked her into coming for a few sessions to experience what I had learned at the WHS before the biopsy.

She could not believe it but when they did the scans again before the surgery, the lump was gone and the biopsy was canceled.

To John and all those who light the way for us to follow, especially Anna, Val, Carol, and Cathy. Thank you!! Cheryl
